

If you purchased an "online ground school", it likely has options for taking practice tests. It's important to note that the FAA does not release the exact bank of questions it uses; so each of these companies do their best to create realistic sample test questions. That's why it's good to take some practice tests from a variety of places to ensure you are getting over 80% minimum of whatever practice questions correct. Here are a few options; feel free to do a search for more.
